Promising Musical Season Commences With Much Activity

Promising to be one of the most active, most fruitful in results and one of the most beneficial to music lovers in the history of this city, the 1937-38 musical season has been launched and already is gathering momentum.

Musical students and teachers have returned to the city after two months' holidays, or the same period spent in brushing up on latest methods or improving technique.

Forbidding looking books containing scales and arpeggios have been brought out, dusted off and are once more being seen gracing and adorning the music rack of the piano, in place of the latest effusion from Tin Pan Alley. The volumes of Beethoven sonatas and the Chopin waltzes are once more seen resting peacefully on top of the piano.

Students are once more active. They are as part of the musical institutions, in private homes or elsewhere.

Along other musical fronts, too, there is a great activity, all indicating that there will be a tremendous impetus to the art of music this year, at this distance at least, to be the most active of the last seven years.

A glance elsewhere on this and the next page of this issue of The Bulletin, will indicate the great activity there is in the academic field of music. The large number of teachers and schools herein mentioned will give an excellent idea of the calibre of musical tuition available here.

Regardless of what type of musical instruction is desired, the needs of the individual student can be attended to. Whether a student desires piano, violin, vocal, dancing or other artistic instruction, there can be attended to by consulting these teachers and institutions mentioned here.

Many of the teachers have spent the summer taking post-graduate and other refresher courses and return to their duties well prepared for higher and better things.

THE NICHOL OF INTEREST
Outside of the purely academic work, there is much for music lovers to look forward to.

Tremendous interest will centre in the Celebrity Series Live Concerts by internationally-known artists being sponsored by the Women's Musical Club. Included in the docket such luminaries as Helen Joyner, Metropolitan Opera soprano, Ruth and Hayes, tenor, the Trudy Schoop and others. Helen Joyner has had the indications of being among the best yet sponsored by the Musical Club. The memory of the visits of such outstanding stars as Richard Crooks, Joe Turbi, Lawrence Tibbett, Elizabeth Cuthbert and others artists to come fires the imagination.

So far there has been no indication of other visiting artists coming, but undoubtedly there will be others.

Among the local musicians, there will be a large volume of interest focused on the regular series of recitals by the Women's Musical Club, with many leading city vocal and instrumentalists taking part.

OPERA IN FALL
The first of the early winter there will be the production by the Edmonton Civic Opera Society of Giuseppe Verdi's "Falstaff." The Empire theatre.

With the return from a two-month absence at Chicago, visiting friends and relatives, Mrs. J. J. Carmichael, general musical director of the Society plans to call her attention to the fact that she will keep the organization working at steady speed until production time.

Augmented by some specially selected voices, including several younger singers who made a favorable impression in the Carmichael production of "The Rose of the Danube" last spring, the company now totals 80.

It will be given complete with ballet and a large orchestra, and from advance notices will surely be a most successful offering to "Trove" in elegance and scope.

CHORUS BURY
Under the widely experienced leadership of W. J. Hendra, the Edmonton Male Chorus will continue a busy season of activities on Wednesday night, when rehearsals get underway at the McKay avenue school. Mr. Hendra also will be busy with the Edmonton Women's chorus, which has a most active season.

The Lyric Women's chorus, under the baton of Mr. Peter McSparran, also will be active.

A season of an innovation is being planned by Abe Frickel, former associate conductor of the Edmonton Symphony Orchestra, in that he is planning a student orchestra, drawn from the city at large. With his extensive experience, Mr. Frickel will be enabled to do much to boost music needed in the city.

These are but a few of the activities that come to the fore at the moment. There will be others, important in every way and all contributing to the musical welfare and uplift of the city.

And, toward the end of the long

Wins Warm Praise From Adjudicator

Dina Heckman, popular and highly talented young violinist and pupil of Roderick V. Cook, L.R.S.M., who has passed with distinction her Grade VIII, or final examination in violin work for the Associated Board of the Royal Academy.

The adjudicator for Miss Heckman was Dr. Thomas Wood, noted musical educator. Dr. Wood wrote that: "She promises to be an excellent player and a musician as well."

That Dr. Wood's conclusions were well justified is evidenced from the marks obtained by Miss Heckman, winning as she did 140 out of 150. She was 15 out of 15 for intonation, perfect marks.

long season, sometime next May there will be a climactic feature to the whole season, namely, the Alberta Musical Festival. Here the various choruses, church choirs, which will have put forward many hours of practice, soloists and groups will compete to put their talents against the others, in an effort to gain top marks from the adjudicators.

Chopin Research Produces Results

Since its formation three years ago the Institute for Chopin Research in Warsaw, Poland, has accomplished two of its objectives. The first of these was the purchase of a collection of Chopin autographs, which was obtained from the Leipzig music publishing firm of Breitkopf & Haertel for 100,000 marks. Secondly, the hope to issue a periodical devoted to Chopin's work has been fulfilled. The first volume of quarterly entitled "Chopin" has been published. It opens with an introduction by August Zaleski, president of the Institute, and contains articles concerning Zaleski-Wolski, Chopin's birthplace, as well as discussions about the compositions of his early youth.

For sight reading, perfect marks in facility in varied bowing and flexibility and correct finger action. On most other details she missed perfect marks only by one. Of course, Dr. Wood wrote that it was of very musical quality, really active and vibrant, showing very considerable warmth."

Those who have heard her play thoroughly concur in Dr. Wood's adjudication.

MODEL PUPIL IN HARMONY

A Text-book by AVENIR NIZOFF

From the preface to the book:
The characteristic of this work may be summed up as follows:

1. Topics and exercises are arranged in a progressive order of difficulty.
2. Theory is presented in terse, synthetic form, of which the clearest representation of chord progression is a new and distinctive feature. Lengthy pages of discussion which confuse the pupil are thus eliminated.
3. Pleasant and interesting exercises are given.
4. Prominence is given to exercises with unfigured bass which make the student's work more interesting.
5. Fingering exercises are given to train the pupil out of "tonquish" and "finger" habits, and to develop the hand and wrist. This phase has hitherto been entirely neglected by authors.
6. Material is provided in the exercises to meet the needs of both average and superior pupils.

The following testimonial was sent by Mrs. R. W. McKinell of Hardisty, a former pupil of the late Professor W. G. Forsyth, famous composer and teacher of Toronto:

Dear Mr. Nizoff:
The "Model Pupil in Harmony" arrived in due time and its artistic appearance gave me real pleasure, which was further enhanced when the contents proved to be the most thorough text of Harmony III I have yet seen. I shall undoubtedly recommend it to my pupils preparing for the Toronto Conservatory Examination. Please advise when your next book on this interesting subject is completed.

Very sincerely,
(Signed) Mrs. R. W. McKinell.

TYPHOON DEAD ARE INCREASED BY HUNDREDS

Liat Already Set At Minimum of 900—More Are Feared

HONG KONG, Sept. 4.—The death toll of the devastating typhoon which ravaged over Hong Kong Thursday rose today when it was disclosed at least 300 dead were buried in the ruins of Tsing Yi and the nearby water place, a few miles from Hong Kong, police estimated at least 300 more had died at other places, bringing the death toll to around 900, while it was still impossible to estimate the loss of life at sea.

WIND STILL BLOWS
Strong gales still whipped Hong Kong harbor and nearby waters but the main storm raged on to the north, hitting the China coast. Weather men said it probably would strike again with destructive force, perhaps between Amoy and Fuchow on the Fukien coast, and the would pass close to the coast.

A possible threat loomed along the coast today following the death among crushed households and splintered dwellings. Workers struggled to free the wreck-stricken harbor. Scores of boats were splintered against shore and sea wall.

RAILWAY WASHOUTS
Fishing fleets were damaged and it was feared the loss of life in the storm would be heavy. Thirty drowned at Shaohuk. There were heavy washouts on the Canton-Hong Kong railway. Damage ran into millions.

The Japanese liner Asama Maru was refueled but the Italian liner Conte Verde was still around. International air services were delayed by damage to the marine air-ports.

The British cruiser Suffolk was rammed by a coastal steamer with damage to its superstructure and an airplane aboard was smashed.

Morocco Riots
Bring Death Toll To 10
MEKNES, French Morocco, Sept. 4.—Ten persons were killed and 15 injured in a riot which broke out during a demonstration by 10,000 natives here today.

Spanish Warcraft Docked For Repairs
FALMOUTH, England, Sept. 4.—The Spanish government destroyer, Arthur J. Drogas, above, of San Antonio, Tex., was damaged by the same party to limit his activities as well as his flock's prayers to his parish. The command came after the ship had been damaged in a collision with a German ship in the English Channel.

Cheaper Milk
LONDON, Sept. 4.—Proposals for obtaining cheaper milk for municipalities so they may extend the grants of free or cheap milk to expectant and nursing mothers, are to be carried out this fall.

BAD TEMPER
Most dogs are by nature temperamental. Nine times out of ten when bad temper or unreliability manifested themselves it is due to improper training and handling in puppyhood. It is instinctive for a dog to growl or even snap at anyone attempting to take it out of its own territory. It is natural for a dog to growl or even snap at anyone attempting to take it out of its own territory.

There is one great factor in proper education of a dog, and that is to teach it to be obedient. It is to educate a child long before it is to educate a dog. Some dogs are born with a tendency to be disobedient, but usually the dog is more patient than man. It is therefore a great mistake to believe that it is usually due to a realization on the part of the dog that it can get away with something and not submit to discipline.

FAULT ON OWN SHOULDERS
Of course, if one requires a grown dog without satisfying oneself that it has been properly trained, there is little one can do about the matter, but if one obtains a puppy and it becomes bad tempered, then the fault usually rests on one's own shoulders.

It is always advisable getting a young dog so as to be able to educate it. One must not be too hasty in trying to make over an animal that through neglect or lack of attention has become headstrong. Unfortunately, some breeders, who give every attention to the sound physical growth of their puppies, neglect to try to develop character.

Very frequently such a puppy brought into contact with a bad temper, and not having grown up in close association with a human being, it is utterly lacking in the elements of obedience. For this reason, it is better to purchase a dog with one's own eyes, and not to rely on the reputation, nature, and character of the breeder.

The best remedy, however, is the most careful selection of the dog. It will amount to little in making a puppy a good companion if it is not a sound of close human fellowship. Different dogs react in different ways, and for the best results, a breeder, as well as the owner, should know the dog's requirements, and the manner of their fulfillment.

Canadian Record Shattered, Too!
Margaret Faulkner, Toronto, captured the Canadian Amateur title with a record-breaking speed of 118 net words per minute.

Climaxing the greatest type-writing victory since the inception of speed typing contests.

LABOR DAY

No one in this country and needs to be told that it is dignified and honorable to work for a living, or to work for a living. Canadians are a working people. They make no apologies for being so. They are proud of it. Labor Day is a day of protest against the idea that idleness is a badge of honor; for there is no such thing. Naturally in these circumstances Labor Day is associated with serious questions of the right of employment, the conditions which prevail where people work, and the reward they get for their labor. In a far too large measure, there has been improvement in Canada generally during the past year. Jobs are more plentiful than they were a year ago. Wages are higher, and salaries are higher. The general public has a voice in determining working conditions, a better recognition, and the trend of wages is definitely upward.

There is still unemployment on a wide scale, there are still sweatshops, and there is still unemployment. But it is far too large a measure to be a betterment in all these respects, and the outlook is for continued betterment in the year to come.

A RIGHT ABOUT

Sir Edward Poulsen, addressing the British Association for the Advancement of Science, expressed the idea that the world is in need of modern armament "already becoming a part of its use, and that it may, in fact, be necessary to turn to it as a matter of course. Scientists used to tell us that nature was in a state of incessant warfare, always had been, and always would be. They said that the world was going along without fighting. The trend of events since the close of the "war to end war" has been driving Japan to unwilling acceptance of the horrible conditions of the present day. The foremost association of scientists hints at the possibility of a world war.

Science recognized the fact that the world is a candid acceptance of the conclusions this leads to. What was said yesterday makes it clear that the world is in a state of war.

MAY THE FORECAST BE TRUE

For several very practical reasons it is to be hoped that the present forecast of the Dominion budget at the end of the present fiscal year will be fulfilled.

That would, of course, automatically add the menace of any further increase in taxation to make ends meet an expected result of the present Minister of Finance was unwillingly driven when he found expenditure out-running income $10,000,000 a year. A balanced budget might even result in some immediate reduction in the levies, to which the public would be no means averse.

It would also stop the deadly growth of the national debt, and of the annual interest bill, which now absorbs more than one-quarter of the national revenue.

Not least among the incidental benefits, a balancing of the accounts would stop the clamor of that busy school of propagandists who have been proclaiming that the only way to save the country from bankruptcy was to scuttle the National Railway system. Or at least compel them to find some other excuse for the proposed sabotage.

A balanced budget would mark the recovery of the Dominion finances from the depression slump, and would thereby make possible an attack upon the unemployment problem in ways hitherto not practicable without plugging up debt.

To absorb the remaining idle supply of labor the country needs a program of public works projects. But when this has been proposed the standing reply was that the country couldn't afford it; it already was struggling to meet annually recurring expenses.

There is also needed a reduction in the qualifying age for old age pensions. Cruel as it is to the aged, it is a necessary step to enable employment have little hope of ever getting steady work again. But when it has been proposed to reduce the pension age and receive these from the relief roll, the standing reply was that the money was not available.

These two things are more important than even a "reduced taxation" when the time comes that revenue outgoes expenditure it will no longer be possible to argue that public works and pensioning the aged are luxuries; they are financially indispensable.

W. D. Ferlie, M.P., has made a speech that does not find favor in the eyes of the Regina Leader. It thinks Mr. Ferlie takes too much credit to himself for the work done in parliament by the North West representatives. There was so little due to him that it could not matter what he did.

The Winnipeg Sun says that the price of wheat in Manitoba is still probably not more than 50 cents a bushel, which is very little above the cost of production, and is dealt with as a poor quality of wheat would mean an actual loss.

Corporal Duval McIntyre, of "B" Squadron, C.M.I., Strathcona, whose name has been prominently mentioned in connection with the two-year's Bailey team, has proved himself during the past few years not only a superior Canadian but also a man of the "foresight" marksmen in the British Empire.

YOUTH AND AGE
Youth hath many charms—
Youth means vigor, and much delight;
Even its doubts, and vague aims,
By contrast make it bright.

I love Age as well as Youth!
Well, when I love them both,
The good of both I will combine—
In youth, I will look for Youth,
In age, I will look for Age.

And thus, I will be true to both,
And thus, I will be true to both,
This truth that goes me up and down,
—George Arnold.

Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Two "strong men" are heading the forces of Japan and China, now clashing in an undeclared war that threatens to embroil the nations of both hemispheres. Both are under fifty years of age and have absorbed Occidental ideas.

The premier of Japan, Prince Fumimaro Konoye at 45 is the youngest but one of all Japan's premiers. He is the first premier to take office without having had previous administrative experience. The Fujiwara family, from which he is descended, has been a close adviser of the emperor for centuries. Prince Konoye was on the staff of Prince Saito, last of the Elder Statesmen, when that official attended the Versailles Conference. He visited America three years ago, and has been a member of the Japanese House of Peers for the past fifteen years.

Konoye has followed the Rooseveltian technique of direct and simple appeals to his people over the radio. He is a sufferer from insomnia—a distressing ailment as a time like the present.

His Chinese protégé, Chiang Kai-Shek, is slightly older. He comes of a substantial middle-class family and has been a soldier since he was 14. Four years of his military service were spent at the Tokyo Military Academy.

Chiang is a republican. He took a prominent part in the revolution of 1911, driving out the last of the Manchus. Dr. Sun Yat Sen, after he became premier, sent his former secretary and military aide to Russia to study the Soviet army and school system. Chiang became head of the Whampoa Military Academy.

A generous donor to the Republican cause, he has been amassed in dealing foreign exchange. Chiang has married into the family of wealthy Chinese bankers into which Dr. Sun Yat Sen had previously married. Chiang was married to Soong Mei-ling, daughter of the Shanghai College, and serves as his link with Western culture.

Chiang has been kidnapped by one of his generals who professed anger that Chiang did not oppose Japan. When Chiang was visited and released, he was sentenced and released; then restored to his command. It is suggested that Chiang convinced his captor of the wisdom of Fabian tactics, and that some sort of agreement was reached between the Chinese republican movement and his Chinese comrade-in-arms.

Wealthy, able, diplomatic and secretive, Chiang is said to be keen-minded and ruthless when necessary. An English general, himself a member in hand-to-hand fighting, has met two men before whose eyes he quailed—the late Lord Kitchener and Chiang Kai-Shek.

What are the chances of China in this ruthless war that has been forced upon her by Japan? Since the outbreak of the war, Chiang has been a member of the faculty of the National University in the Chinese capital—Professor Grover Clark of Denver University, Colorado—says that Chiang will win, but that it will be a long and a bloody struggle.

"We know where he is," he says, "that a show-down between China and Japan was inevitable. Delay was to the advantage of China. His government and people submitted to insult, humiliation and all sorts of impudent challenges.

"Before taking on the Japanese, he created a national government and a nationalist mind. It also had in use a lot of money to dispose of the Communists."

Japan has steeled China as a nation which always quits what it is doing when it rains. China will wipe that sneer off the face of Japan, and she will have her revenge. They have something to fight for. The hardest downpour cannot quench the spirit thus aroused.

The government does not seem to worry about the fact that it has no longer a leader to fight and their willingness to fight if they realize the cause just.

Japan does not get its detachments from its railroad centers, like Hankin, capital of Manchukuo, for service in other stations. There have been 100 assassinations there in the past few years. These have thrown fear into the official ranks. Japan cannot carry out a long campaign from the standpoint either of men or money. In other words, it cannot continue the war.

Dr. Clark is author of several books on Asiatic problems: "Economic Rivalries in China," "Place in the Sun" and "The Balance Sheet of Imperialism." He believes that if other nations refrain from interference, China unaided will overcome Japan in the end; but then settle down to become an Asiatic nation, such as Belgium is in Europe. He adds:

"The quickest way to shorten the war is for the United States to declare war on Japan and other nations to cease trading with Japan."

Very soon we shall have another special session of the League of Nations. The Communists in two years. This time, we are assured, measures will be passed which will ensure a true condition of Social Credit to extend its blessings over the people of America.

When the public health measure was enacted early in 1933, it was set out in two limited areas in the province. Now, the Social Credit in some sizeable zone where virtually all of the residents are pledged to "co-operate."

Such a zone exists in the north of the province in the prosperous and well-ordered Mormon communities. They are almost solely Social Credit. There is a small zone in the south of the province in the Mormon communities. They are almost solely Social Credit. There is a small zone in the south of the province in the Mormon communities. They are almost solely Social Credit.

Success or non-success. Social Credit should give a fair chance to prove its worth in some compact area of the province where production is well assured. I know of no more suitable area for such a test than the province of Alberta in the south where the standard of intelligence is high and the loyalty of the people to their Social Credit is unquestioned. The possibility of new and surprising effects of the Social Credit would appeal to the faithful in the Mormon communities.

EUROPE SCANS THE FUTURE

By Dr. D. H. HARRIS, Secretary of the Royal Bank of Canada—Who Has Returned From An Extended Visit To Europe.

From a European viewpoint the outstanding factors likely to have determinant influence upon the immediate future of world business and rearrangement of Great Britain and the continued progress of recovery in the United States, British rearrangement has brought hope that an interval of peace will afford an opportunity to continue reconstruction. Continued expansion of business in the United States, accompanied by a moderate reduction in tariffs, is releasing new purchasing power and constitutes a positive stimulus making for further improvement. In spite of the situation in Spain, in spite of labor troubles in France, and in the face of a fairly widespread fear of war, progress is being achieved. Both politically and economically the general outlook seems increasingly favorable.

In no European country, no matter what the form of government, is the sentiment of the general public favorable to war. In a degree unknown on this side of the Atlantic the desire for peace is a passion with the public in every part of Europe. It is a subject closer to the hearts of the general public in Europe than it is in North America because of the pervasive fear that neighbors would be drawn into the war.

Understanding of the almost intolerable economic conditions prevailing in neighboring countries has been achieved. It is now generally recognized that war will be inevitable. In a number of European countries standards of living are at a minimum, for the present, and the danger and any reversal of the present upward movement is politically dangerous. Yet, fear leads to logical actions, it leads countries into acts of reprisal, and the general public is not aware of this. Fear is of itself dangerous and destructive.

In a depopulated Europe good land is scarce and per capita natural resources are limited and are, therefore, more precious than in countries less seriously over-populated. Again and again the thought enters the mind of the traveler, swept over the land, spurring neither homes, shrines, nor works of art. Countryside more fertile than any I have seen elsewhere has been repeatedly devastated. Traditions of destruction are a living part of daily existence. Yards of patient toil can never serve to rebuild and replace the precious shrines previously destroyed.

It is against this background that rearrangement of the world as a new order is not fully understood on this side of the Atlantic. There is no Europe there is a fairly general recognition that the prime objective of Great Britain is the maintenance of peace and the perpetuation of those conditions most favorable to international trade. With such reservations on the part of those who are sending the word to the world, the immediate aims of British policy, the rearrangement of Great Britain is accepted as an indication of the real wealth of the world.

Europe will be effectively opened. Most of Europe breathe easier because recent diplomatic messages from London have that first note of a country which will win, but that it will be a long and a bloody struggle.

GENERAL SYNOD HEARS REPORT OF DIRECTOR

Contributions Started Five Years Ago Reach Big Proportions

HALIFAX, Sept. 4.—Virtual completion of the restoration fund, totaling over the million mark, was announced in the general synod of the Church of England in Canada today by Rev. Canon S. G. Goudier, director of the fund.

Begin five years ago, the restoration fund campaign had as its objective the replacing of lost documents, chiefly of the Diocese of Rupert's Land, and the establishment of a separate pension reserve. Up to April of this year it was estimated a total of $1,000,000 was obtained. Contributions were reported as still coming in.

Following adoption of the report, Rev. Canon H. Winnipeg, president of the general synod, said: "The restoration fund is the most important of the church's work in Canada."

Later a subsidiary motion was presented by F. W. Blackadder, Victoria, and passed by the synod.

New Roxy Theatre To Serve Patrons In City West End

Designed to present the most modern in exterior appearance and carrying that view to the full limit in interior as to the latest in seating arrangements and comfort features with lighting effects unsurpassed anywhere in Canada, the Roxy theatre to be built at Seventh avenue and 104th street, will fill a long-felt want for Edmonton west-enders.

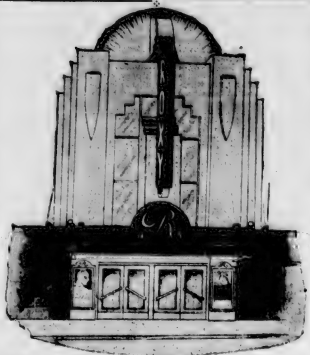

News of progress in this newest Edmonton venture came to light today with the completion of the architect's plans and the announcement that it is expected that the show house will be ready for occupancy by the end of the present month.

According to directors D. A. McInerney and Frank Donahue, who together with William H. Wilson, have planned the new Roxy, the theatre is to cost approximately $300,000. When completed, it will become a community centre for amusements as well as a million picture house featuring the best in films.

The building which will be an addition to the neighbourhood, will occupy, plans show, the full 30 by 150 feet of 7th avenue and 104th street. It will be a completely fireproof as is possible in a show building. The seating capacity is placed at 500. Adequate stage facilities will be provided and it is hoped to encourage community effort by having available modern conveniences to this end.

The Roxy Theatre, Ltd., constructors and owners of the new theatre plant, has given close study to the latest conveniences in the show building. It will be one of the few air conditioned playhouses in Edmonton.

Actual construction is expected to begin at an early date.

The high school registration was 245 in number in each class being Grade XI, 68; Grade X, 70; Grade XI, 46; Grade XII, 46; and commercial classes 16. Last year opening day registration was 232 and in 1935 it was 212.

Benton Area Has Desolate Crop Prospect

BENTON, Sept. 4.—Gordon White, J. G. LaFrance and Sam Nelson are the Calgary-Saskatoon trail. What the eastern part of the highway traverses a land of parched fields, burned, scorched grain, abandoned farmhouses, half deserted towns. Russian thistles, old, brown and rusted, form bridges in the fences. Drifts of sand partly conceal the thistles, half in the trees and half in the fields.

Eight hundred bushels will be the total crop in this district this summer. Ten years ago two prominent farmers, Bill Denison and Dick Mead, filled one elevator which held 30,000 bushels. Many farmers are content with a few bushels of grain and are leaving their land and slacking them for feed.

Lost a small green carterpillar has attacked the gardens and stripped leaves from vegetables and trees. It will be necessary to ship chickens and turkeys near town. Corianders and skunks are killing chickens and turkeys near town.

BAY TREE, Sept. 4.—Farmers in this district who have returned enough to sow their crops early in the season are now reaping the benefit. Current high prices of grain and the fairly heavy crop means more money in the farmers' pockets.

Although the lack of moisture in the surrounding country this year has kept the roads in the district in fair shape, thus saving a considerable amount on road work.

EMPLOYMENT IN MINE FIELD IS AT SATURATION

GOLDFIELD, Sask., Sept. 4.—Employment has reached a saturation point for this season and it will not be advisable for men to venture into the Athabasca mining area this fall in search of work. Consolidated Smithers have an employment agency at Prince Albert where tradesmen have been engaged for their camp here.

The open season in the north country is well advanced. Low water in the Athabasca river has retarded the movement of freight and as a result many companies are keeping their crews at minimum strength to avoid a heavy fall lay-off. Shipping companies anticipate an early freeze-up and should this be the case any heavy freight bill to reach the area, would be a large number of men now working will likely be let out. C.M.S. are reported building warehouses near the junction of the Athabasca river and Athabasca lake with the intention of freight supplies in over the lake with caterpillar tractors.

Active planning on a move to the mining field should postpone the trip until next spring. The beginning of April is probably the best time of the year to arrive in the area. Practically every man who arrived this year prior to July 1 has secured employment. This is not the case every year, so it is advisable to be here during the early spring.

It's Common Sense!

That if you must support a Hernia (Rupture) you must do so by a surgical appliance of some type. Other than a surgical operation or attention, you must have a support (Truss, Belt, etc.) for retention. The continuous motion with the variable-depth necha-form pads, gives this correct retention.

NO PRESSURE ON THE SPINE

So Mr. Mason, Manager of the Surgical Appliance Division of the F. London & Co. (Canada) Ltd., with Head Office in Derby, England, comes to Edmonton at Archibald's Drug Store.

ARRANGING THE COLLECTION (Continued)

To continue with the "writing up" of a collection it will be found that in a "club" collection, i.e., one that deals especially with the designs of the stamps, that it will be necessary to have a brief note below almost every stamp. Great care should also be taken in this, for you will find you have seen full of writing and but few figures. An example of this is a stamp of a man, you describe a stamp as bearing the portrait of a famous author, you cannot give his whole life history in your stamp, but his name, date and place of his birth and death, and one or two of his principal works, might be mentioned. But there will be little space for anything else—there is no space in the stamp, but it is necessary to maintain a record of balance between stamps and writing, otherwise you will find the story of the stamps, instead of a stamp collection "telling" you, you are dealing with a collection of stamps.

ALWAYS ENCLOSE A STAMPED ADDRESSED ENVELOPE

Address all correspondence to: The Director, Stamp Collectors' Club, The Bulletin, Edmonton, Alberta.

For some years the Bulletin has been the hobby of an internationally known philatelic expert, who is at your service to advise regarding your problems. YOU are welcome in membership. State your age, size of collection and what stamps are of special interest to you. Enclose postage for reply always. You will receive a membership card and some stamps for your collection.

mind how many stamps you are of arrangement will be a set or in some of which will go on a page and fill it comfortably, while others will require two pages. Again, others will go two sets to a page, marked with a thick line of the central horizontal and vertical lines, and it will also be found that such lines are extended slightly outside the frames to indicate the middle of the top or sides of the ruled page. The stamps on the page should balance as far as possible, around the central point. You will mount your stamps, of course, page by page, and will place the greatest possible number of stamps in each horizontal row. The result will be ugly. It is better to vary the number of stamps, according to the number of stamps you have to get on the page you are dealing with.

Experience will teach the best methods of dealing with "odd" stamps and those.
